Bank of America scholarship recipients named

Hartnell College named its first round winners in the Bank of American Community College Awards program this week.

Joan Lien, Allen Violini, Stacy Cepello, and Maria Carmo each received an award for outstanding scholarship in their respective fields of study, participation in outside activities, and leadership qualities.

Each student may now receive $150 for participating in a semi-final event and up to $2,000 for placing among the winners.

Joan Lien, the Student Body Secretary at Hartnell, received the award in the field of business. Miss Lien has also served as student representative to the Hartnell Presents series and to the Cooperative Education Committee.

Receiving the award in the combined fields of science and engineering was Allen H. Violini, a chemistry major, has been selected as an assistant in the chemistry department.

Achieving honors in the technical-vocational field was Maria Carmo. She has been active in campus activities as the President of the Future Secretaries Association and as a tutor for business students.

Stacy Cepello, was chosen for academic standing in the fields of social science and humanities. Extending his concern for social science, he has worked for both Sen. George McGovern and Julian Camacho campaigns.

Cepello has also helped tutor on campus, assisted in high school gymnastics, and been awarded a California State Scholarship.

Each of these students are also on the Hartnell College Honor Roll.

Editorial: Why UFW must boycott

by Walt Rathbun

From April 17, 1967 to April 18, 1973, the United Farm Workers Union, AFL-CIO was the exclusive bargaining agent for all Gallo Winery, E & J agricultural employees.

In April of 1973 the first of these contracts expired, rather than renew contracts with the United Farm Workers Union, Gallow Winery sought and eventually signed contracts with the Teamsters.

These contracts reinstated the former labor contractors system for the hiring of a worker, provided no protection from pesticides, no grievance procedure, and undercut the United Farm Workers wage proposal by 40 per cent.

In response to this, more than a thousand farm workers went out on strike in Coachella Valley the day after the Teamster contracts were signed. Eventually the growers signed new contracts with the Teamsters, and thousands more farm workers joined the strike.

By August the Teamsters were in possession of all but a handful of the former United Farm Workers contracts, and seven thousand workers were on strike demanding representation by the United Farm Workers Union.

Teamsters sign with Gallo

The Gallo contract entered upon on July 9, 1973 is far more favorable to Gallo than the collective bargaining agreement sought by the United Farm Workers.

The Teamster contract provide wage levels lower than those established by collective bargaining agreements mediated by the UFW with other wine producers and grants Gallo absolute discretion in hiring, thus abolishing the hiring hall system, under which the Union referred workers on the basis of seniority, and thus permits the reinstitution of the labor contract system, under which workers are recruited and paid by independent contractors or crew bosses free from supervision or control.

The Teamster contracts also eliminate crucial health and safety protection, particularly those against deadly pesticides.

Gallo threatens UFW

Gallo is continuing to threaten farm workers with discharge or other economic reprisals if they refuse to abandon their support of the Teamsters.

Many workers who have become Teamsters have done so under duress, solely to retain their jobs.

In conclusion, statements made over a period of years from a number of different Teamster spokesmen, indicate that the predominant motive for the Teamster's move into the fields is not to organize the workers, but to prevent the United Farm Workers from organizing them.

The Teamsters have never seriously attempted to win the workers allegiance before signing contracts representing them (Affidavit of Bill Grami in England vs. Chaves), and have gone so far as to disclaim any interests in the participation of farmworkers in their union once they were present.

With regard to the processing of grievances, holding meetings or advising workers of their rights, there is all the evidence that confirms one's suspicions, that the workers once organized, are not represented. Workers are paying dues and none of this money is expended in representing them.

Mecha Club to sponsor workshops here Mar. 23-24

The MECHA WOMEN'S Conference at Hartnell College on March 23-24 is the beginning "awareness" for the Chicano Women. Workshops are being planned to inform the Chicano Women about programs and opportunities open to them.

Some of the workshops to be sponsored by the MECHA Women are health, education, pinto (ex-con) committee workshop, and a college recruitment workshop,

The idea for the conference came from the women in MECHA who felt a need for Chicano awareness at Hartnell.

It's the awareness of opportunities such as a college education and financial aid and ways MECHA can help them prosper from it.

On the move . . .

Swimming

Coach Mike Garibaldi has a swimming team that just might splash into the headlines. If you think that water-polo is exciting, just wait till you see his 12 man (and woman) team compete against such teams as Menlo, M.P.C., Gavilan, and Cabrillo.

They are a young team and one that should bring Hartnell surfacing to the top once again.

Baseball

Remember those summer afternoons filled with league baseball games at the local ballpark?

If you do, great. If you don't that's OK too. Hartnell will take care of that little misfortune at it's own baseball diamond with a field of star-studded All state material coached by Tony Teresa.

And even if you don't understand the game on first sight....don't let it get ya down. All you have to do is watch one of the Hartnell games, and you'll understand, like, enjoy. And, to put it mildly... you'll be hooked on that baseball feeling!

Rodeo

Yes, Hartnell does have a rodeo team. Like any other individual or team sport they do need support. They are a young team with loads of talent, which includes a brand new coach, Buster Negel.

So get out and just for a kick, see a rodeo, and better yet enjoy one of America's prime sports.

Softball

The greatest misfortune in women sports is that it normally goes unnoticed, and that includes most of the women sports here at Hartnell.

This spring when the softball team emerges onto the field--be sure to be in the stands watching the action. Athletics do not only belongs to the athletic man but also to the little known athletic woman.

Record breaking water treaders go against arch rival Cabrillo next Friday

The improving swim team under the leadership of coach Mike Garibaldi set another school record last Saturday at the Northern California Relays, held at Cabrillo.

The new mark came in the 400 Medley relay by the team of Steve Dagnall, John Moyes, Matt Thomson, and Pat Brennand. The time set by the Panther foursome ranks fifth in all of the northern California community college.

The swim team also announced that the March 1 cancellation against M.P.C. will be made up March 22 in a tri-meet against Menlo. The meet was scheduled to be held at Menlo but was switched to Hartnell instead.

Next meet for the Hart's will be March 9 against the water treaders main rival for the conference championship--Cabrillo. Starting time will be 3:30.

Panther tracksters host "team to beat" this afternoon

Coach Gary Shaw's tracksters will face Monterey Peninsula College this afternoon at 3:30 on the Hartnell track.

Since Monterey rates as the "team to beat" this year, this should be a powerful clash of muscles.

Last Friday, James Brewster Thompson scored 62.5 in the 440 yd intermediate hurdles, a 15.9 in the 120 high hurdles and a 6.4 in the high jump to pace Hartnell in a narrow 75-68 win over the visiting Cabrillo Seahawks.

Greg Reyes ran a 4:36.6 mile and then came back to clock a 10:01.5 in the 2 mile. Tim Haag, heaved firsts in both the shotput (45-8 1/2) and the discuss (135-2).

In the single events, winners were Bill Dew, 43.5 in the triple jump; Gilbert Miguel, 12-6 in the pole vault; and Jeff Garcia, 146-10 in the javelin.

Coach Gary Shaw's tack squad won 9 out of 17 events in all.

Perhaps one of the greatest stage-hits of the mid 1950's is announced by Hal Ulrici for tentative opening May 17.

Backed by a cast of more than sixty individuals, Hal Ulrici stated that, Teahouse of the August Moon certainly contains one of the largest casts that I have ever worked with.

Both Hal Ulrici and Gary Parsons, who is also connected with the Hartnell Drama Department, agree that the move from the Little Theater to the new facility has presented them with endless problems to overcome.

Thus far these instructors have been utilizing what little space is available within the Rehearsing Arena while work continues on the main stage area.

Some of the most obvious problems confronting this production is the adjustment the cast will have to make in both rhythm and timing once on the new stage, this is compounded when one realizes that they will have to make in five or six weeks themselves familiar with this stage.

While the problems are indeed enormous, they are far from insurmountable, especially when one views the past conditions from which these instructors were only recently emancipated. Another lever working on their behalf is discipline that has become a trade mark of all Ulrici products.

Teahouse of the August Moon is a Pulitzer prize-winning comedy that has sometimes been called a modernized M. Butterfly or the Mikado without music, it is centered on the struggle of a well-meaning but bumbling American Army Captain sent to administer a remote little village on island of Okinawa soon after its conquest and occupation by U. S. Forces.

Aiming to install democratic ideals and bring prosperity to the villagers and armed with a set of rigid directives for the jobs that have been devised at far-away Pentagon in Washington, the amiable captain finds himself frustrated, harassed and hoodwinked by a native Okinawan assigned to be his interpreter.

This cheerful rogue thinks his ability to speak a haphazard English has elevated him to the role of a U. N. delegate-at-large—without portfolio or an extra pair of pants.

But with his impish shrewdness he helps the abashed captain realize that Americans in the East, rather than merely indoctrinating Asians with western ways, may have something to learn themselves.

Editorial: Follow up: do we need chaperones?

by Tom Cherne

Last week, as many of you avid readers of the Sentinel probably know by now, I roasted the commission and the Inter Club Council for not doing a good job about putting on more school activities.

Shortly after my article had gone to press, the Choir Club started placing signs all around the campus about the dance they were going to have after the basketball game last Saturday against Gavilan.

Having consoled myself with the fact that the "roasting" had come at a bad time, I told people who had advance knowledge of the article that I hoped the Choir Club would enjoy great success so I could eat my words.

But wouldn't you know it: Hartnell managed to find a new way of avoiding putting on campus activities. And this time, the commission and the I.C.C didn't have anything to do with the failure.

Choir Club forgets approval

Apparently, in their zest to put on the after-game dance the Choir Club forgot to get it approved by the student activities office. As a result, nobody like the custodial staff, the campus police, and the chaperones was quite ready for it.

For awhile, it looked like the "corpse" of what was once called campus activity around here had arisen from the dead. It really looked for awhile as if the music department would be our saviours from the from the wilderness of boredom.

But alas, all went for naught and another good idea went down smoldering in the ashes of what has become known as "apathy". The gossip around campus this week was the the dance might be held later in the year.

Letter: moving and grooving at 50

To the Editor:

It's a tremendous feeling to be attending Hartnell College after being out of College classrooms since 1944, and suddenly finding myself in a vocational class on welding.

Like many other veterans, I am attending classes on the GI bill. The most amazing thing is the treatment. I am almost 50 years old and I thought that my learning potential was behind me.

I spent most of my 21 years in the infantry and came out with a lot of knowledge, but with no trade. In civilian life, to get a job you need a trade.

So after all these years, I find myself back in the classroom and it's great. It has added so much to my life and I owe it to the United States of America, under the GI Bill for the greatest opportunity of my life.

I intend to use my ability in welding to go to a new job in civilian life. It's really turned me on.

I am now in my third semester at Hartnell, and must say again and again, it's grat to be a student here.

I find that the instructors are really fine and that they are very interested in their students, whether young or old

Veterans have employment assistance here

Veterans who are seeking employment are now urged to contact the Hartnell Veterans Affairs Office for assistance.

Hartnell College, in conjunction with the Monterey Peninsula College Office of Veterans Affairs, is co-sponsoring VETERANS PROFILE a community service program which airs a veterans interests and qualifications in a particular area of employment.

Those veterans interested in this program are asked to contact Jerry McNow at the Veterans Affairs Office located in room 3-g of the counselors wing or by calling extension 210.

Now that somebody has finally made an effort to put something on, how about a few people who are in a position to help actually doing it. Nobody expects any miracles, but a little effort would be appreciated.

A little less paranoia than people seem to have about the lack of money for activities would help. A good example of this paranoia is the case of the Aquatic club wanting to bring in the Oakland Raiders to play basketball against some of the coaches April 13. Something like this could be a real success if people around would just give it a chance.

If Ralph Nader can draw 3,000 people for a speaking engagement then why shouldn't this do well too? Particularly with Channel 8 (KSBW) advertising for it? Or, has the financial problem made all of us ridiculously timid?

Now, really, aren't we too old?

Speaking of the ridiculous around the campus I'd like to know why grown adults really need to be chaperoned for a dance. We're not in junior high anymore; or are we?

Cagers 2nd in conference, lose to Gavilan

The Basketball team closed their season on a losing note last Saturday night as the Gavilan Rams surprised the Hart's 73-63 at Hartnell.

The loss of their first game left the roundballers with a 20-7 season won-loss mark and second place in the coast conference, as they had an 11-3 mark in loop play. Going into the game the Salinas team had been rated fourth in the state small college poll.

Allen George led the losers with 24 points and 13 rebounds--both team highs. Ray Canepa was the only other Panther to score consistently as he hit for 14 points. Ken De Moor also made a fine contribution as he came off the bench in the second half and temporarily sparked the club with his outside shooting.

In the Hart's last road game played earlier in the week they downed a stubborn Ohlone five 70-67. Canepa, Dave Kendrick, and Bernard Hicks carried the bulk of the scoring in that one as they hit for 25, 12, and 10 points respectively.

When asked what he thought about the season, coach Len Wilkins replied: "We had the ability to take it all (conference and state playoffs). Our record was good, but it should have been better."

Lost, lonely? All the action is right here

Okay. You're bored. Right? Right. What are you going to do about it? Sitting around on your fanny and say "there's nothing to do?" No way. Spring is here and with it comes all the action you need.

Tennis

What do Bobby Riggs, Billie Jean King, Mrs. Carol Howell, and Hartnell have in common? Tennis.

Yes. . . Hartnell does have a tennis team and they are ready for action. Upcoming matches will be against U.C. Berkeley, Diablo Valley and Cuesta among others. In all there are 24 scheduled College matches that Hartnell will partake in. There will be singles and doubles events.

Home matches will be held on the Hartnell College courts located on the west side of the swimming pool.

Golf

The golf team has 2-2 record after four matches. The latest of these contests came against West Valley last Friday at Corral de Tierra, the Hart's home course.

Bill Mendenhall won in the singles competition for the Panthers as he defeated his opponent by a 4-2 score. In best ball matches Bart Yowell won for the home team by a 4-2 count.

Next match for the club swingers will be this coming Tuesday against M.P.C. at the Rancho Canada course Starting time is 1:00 p.m.

Track

Coach Gary Shaw's track team is the proud owner of 44 consecutive dual meet wins and hasn't lost a Coast Conference dual meet since 1967. The team also has seven consecutive CCJC Relay and Meet Championships. This goes back to the days of retired Coach G. Ed Adams.

Badminton

The Northern California Badminton Association is hosting the 34th United States Closed National Badminton Championships, to be held at California State University, Hayward, April 11-14.

Contributions in the amount of $25 for two or $15 for one may be made payable to the 34th U.S. Closed National Badminton Championships. These may be sent to Jerry R. Eichelberger at 24885 Broadmore Ave, Hayward, CA 94544. A reserved seat section will be provided for the semi-final and final matches for the patrons. "This match is usually held in the East and will be a beautiful opportunity for people who are badminton enthusiasts sated Miss West."

Dave Kendrick is all alone as he pops in two points against Monterey.

Nishida turns out fine performance in Hart tennis loss

Despite the loss of its top player Brian De Mars, who is the National Guard, the Hartnell tennis team gave Diablo Valley a mighty battle before losing the match by a single point 5-4.

Bob Nishida and Bill Cornick were in the singles competition for the Panthers. Nishida won over his adversary 6-1, 3-6, and 6-3. Cornick lost the first set of his match 6-7, but came back to take the next two by 6-4 and 7-5 margins.

The doubles tandem of Dave Bondietti and Nishida won their match in two sets--6-3, 7-5. Chris Griffing and Cornick won in three sets--5-7, 7-5, and 6-1.

The racketeers had better luck Monday of this week as they wiped out Cuesta 7-2 at Hartnell. The Hart's won most of the singles events and swept all three doubles matches.

Next match for the racket swingers will be tomorrow against Diablo Valley as the Salinas team will try to come out victorious in the visitor's role. Next home match for coach Carol Howell's squad will be March 12 against Cabrillo.

Starting time for that one is 2:00 p.m. at the Hartnell courts.

Hartnell gets some high marks, some suggestions

A new accreditation report gives Hartnell College High marks in some areas, and a list of suggestion for improvement, the college Board of Trustees learned recently.

In presenting the report from the Accreditation Commission for Junior Colleges, Western Association of Schools and Colleges, to the board, Hartnell President, Dr. Gibb Madsen remarked, "The accreditation report was very positive and reaffirmed our accreditation."

Hartnell gained applause for the new ethnic studies being offered in a course study, but the report urged implementation of an Affirmative Action Plan, and more "programs for various groups within the community," such as a non-credit course for older adults and women.

The college also re-

In the area of student services, the report criticized a minimum of health services available to students and no centralized placement office.

The report commended the college district's efforts in the areas of agriculture and work experience education.

David Ipson chairman of the Faculty Senate said, "We think it was a very positive report."

ions were too far reaching

However, some of the accrediting team's suggestions and "in some cases aren't too practical," Ipson said.

One example is a suggestion by the accrediting team that a full-time director over the work experience program be added.

ceived favorable mention for its building program, in which a physical education complex was recently completed.

The report also suggested that the college develop a method of following the progress of students who transfer from Hartnell into four year institutions.

A follow-up on transfer students, the report stated would help the academic faculty evaluate their teaching methods.

The report also suggested that the feasibility of offering Friday and Saturday afternoon classes should be explored, and said that plans to provide welfare recipients to become licensed child care aides should be continued.

The troubled student government at Hartnell also was commented upon in the report. It suggested that greater faculty interest in student government might help revive student interest.

As it is now, a student participating in the program is evaluated by instructors with expertise in the separate fields covered under the work experience program.

on the move . . .

The Hartnell Panther wrestling team racked up 13 points to place fourth in the Northern California Community College championship tournament held in the DeAnza College gym Feb. 22.

Charley Nunez finished in fifth place in the 142 pound class as Mike Maeva (190) placed sixth to lead Coach Bill Bernstein's Hartnell wrestling team.

WAA

The Women's Athletic Association will be attending an Asilomar conference at Pacific Grove today through Sunday. This event is an annual thing, in which athletic women from college's all over the Pacific Southwest meet for a weekend each year. Participants in the event will come from Arizona, California, Hawaii, Nevada, and Utah.

Women representing Hartnell in the three day event are: Nancy Frudden, Mary Perkins, Peggy Bell, Gloria Orozco, Gelenda Woodrow, Janet Lyle, Maureen Hogan, and Anne Hayes
